firm FRH as provisional insolvency administrator. Some 80 people are employed by those three companies combined.

Restructuring solutions being examined

The five companies have had to file for insolvency due to a liquidity shortage in the group resulting from declining sales. There is presently a general reluctance among consumers to buy new and used cars given the current recession in Germany, and conditions are difficult in the automotive industry. Restructuring solutions for the car dealership group will now be examined under the framework of the insolvency proceedings. The provisional insolvency administrators would consider an overall solution for the group as well as individual solutions for the different locations.

Managing director Mr Manfred Staffel said, “We have been running our car dealership since 1990 and gradually opened new locations over recent years. Our company has never before faced such difficult circumstances. We will work together with the insolvency administrators and hope that our group can be saved.”

The Staffel car dealership group sells Opel, Ford and Mitsubishi vehicles at seven locations. Customer satisfaction is the utmost priority for the family-run business. Its professionally trained team is also keen to offer deals and services tailored specifically and exclusively to customer requirements. The group has dealerships in Hildburghausen, Schleusingen (two locations), Sonneberg, Suhl, Coburg and Kronach.
